

Bolton Castle Access Statement

Introduction

Bolton is one of the country's best preserved medieval castles, situated in the heart of Wensleydale with stunning views over the Yorkshire Dales National Park. Completed in 1399 by Richard le Scrope, Chancellor of England to Richard II, its scars bear testament to over 600 years of fascinating history including involvement in the Pilgrimage of Grace, Mary Queen of Scots imprisonment and a Civil War siege. The Castle was partially ruined during the siege but incredibly about one third of the rooms and three quarters of the walls remain intact giving us great insight to its turbulent past.

The Castle is run as a tourist attraction and a venue for weddings, paranormal investigations, school visits and private functions.

Aims

Bolton Castle is a beautiful and unique castle to visit. However, as an ancient historical monument, it was built before the days of the Disability Discrimination Act and disability access requirements and, while we will do everything possible to ensure all of our visitors can access as much of the attraction as possible, there are many parts of the Castle which are not accessible to those with reduced mobility due to the nature of the building. There are spiral stairs up to almost every level (five floors in total) and we are unable to have a lift installed due to the nature of the building. There is uneven flooring and cobbles throughout the building as well as ruined sections which can include trip hazards.

As we are aware of the access limitations in the Castle we will do everything possible to enable people to enjoy as much of the attractions as possible through making arrangements to open the portcullis to allow people with reduced mobility to access the courtyard and some of the ground floor to see the Hawk and Owl displays and archery demonstrations. We have provided large print guides to the Castle available on request and much of the garden is wheelchair accessible.

At Bolton Castle we are committed to helping all of our visitors learn more about this inspiring Castle, its' fascinating history, the families who lived here and how it is looked after today.

We aim to provide an excellent service to all of our visitors at all times and will always do everything possible to enable our visitors to access and enjoy the Castle and all it has to offer. We are continually striving to improve the Castle experience for all and are working to add new elements to the attraction so that as many people as possible can enjoy learning about its' rich and varied history.

Public Areas - General (Internal)

- The Castle contains many potential hazards to visitors which we have tried to reduce through making visitors aware of the risks with our Health and Safety signs around the Castle and the guidelines that we give out to Groups and schools before visits.
- Flooring in the Castle includes cobbles (courtyard and downstairs rooms), flagstones, wooden floorboards, sloping earth floors and concrete and many of the stone floor surfaces are uneven and can be slippery even in warm weather.
- There are 5 floors to see and most access includes walking up spiral stairs which are worn, uneven and different heights.
- There are benches and possible seating provided up to the 3rd floor level. After that there is no seating available.
- Lighting is dim in areas to enhance the atmosphere.

- There are ruined areas in the Castle which means there are some stones/half ruined walls which must be avoided.

Special Access Arrangements

- For visitors who are unable to walk up the stone steps into the Castle we can open the portcullis allowing visitors to walk on one level from the car park round into the courtyard of the Castle. To arrange for us to open the portcullis, please call the castle in advance to arrange a time of the visit. Alternatively one member of the group can come into the gift shop to ask for the portcullis to be opened. The access to the portcullis is via a sloping road and then up a cobbled driveway which will still be difficult for wheelchairs to access.
- The courtyard is cobbled and very uneven. It can also be very slippery in certain weather conditions.
- In the courtyard visitors can watch the hawk and owl display, archery demonstrations and access some parts of the ground floor of the Castle including the archers' garrison, stables, Guest tower, Great Hall and Well chamber.

Public Areas - WC

- There are three ladies WCs available and 1 mens' WC.
